LOOKING TO DO SOMETHING DIFFERENT FOR YOUR EVENT?
How about hiring the man behind the I AM INDIAN video?

We all love our traditional songs and dances but a comedian adds some spice (masala) to the mix. A great host is the "glue" for the entire event. Rajiv can throw in witty comments as it all unfolds. He's even great at running fundraisers, including auctions, ensuring you'll raise more money for your cause. In addition, he can perform over an hour of clean, family-friendly standup comedy. Finally, he can give a keynote speech based on his experiences as an Indian in America.

Experience: Awards Shows, Dance Competitions (PhillyFest, Bhangra in The Burgh, Garden State Garba, Bruin Bhangra, South Beach Bhangra, Dandia on Fire), Chamber of Commerce Meetings, Programs for Doctors (AAPI), Lawyers (SABA), Hoteliers (AAHOA), Weddings, Parties (Engagement, Graduation, Birthday).

International Cities: Geneva, Istanbul, Dubai, Kuwait, Muscat, Bangkok, Bangalore, Bangkok, Chennai, Dubai, Durgapur, Geneva, Hyderabad, Istanbul, Kochi, Kolkata, Kuwait, Mumbai, Muscat, New Delhi, Ottawa, Patna, Toronto, Vancouver.

CLIENTS:

Rajiv Satyal is a Los Angeles-based comedian/host. His TV-clean act has made him one of the most versatile comedians working today. Satyal has some interesting claims to fame: he opened for Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi in front of 17,000 people. He has opened for Russell Peters more than any other Indian comedian. Rajiv even hosted Dave Chappelle's very first show after his much-publicized African hiatus. Satyal performs weekly at the Laugh Factory in Hollywood. He co-created the world-touring Make Chai Not War, a Hindu/Muslim stand-up show. The U.S. State Dept. sponsored it, sending it to seven cities in India. The show became part of the Congressional Record after being mentioned on Capitol Hill to Secretaries of State Hillary Clinton and John Kerry. This University of Cincinnati engineer and former P&G marketer has done stand-up at more than 100 colleges. Satyal has acted in national commercials and in TV shows. He has recorded 130 episodes of his podcast, The TanGent Show, and has interviewed everyone from Deepak Chopra to Aasif Mandvi to Preity Zinta. Rajiv wrote No Man's Land, a 100-minute one-person show about his dating life that sold out all six performances from LA to NY to San Francisco to Cincinnati. This show actually led to Satyal's marriage, which itself had a comedic arc: Rajiv proposed to his girlfriend while opening for Kevin Nealon, and at his wedding, Russell Peters finally opened for him.
